

PRESS RELEASE

Locals Can Be A Part of the Festival!

For this years Adelaide Cabaret Fringe Festival anyone can have the opportunity to be a part of Porcelain and the Femme Fatale's 'Garden of Eden' show. The NSW based show stopping at Adelaide for it's first stop of a National Tour is offering locals the chance to undertake a workshop with Porcelain (choreographer, producer and Miss Pinup International 2013). Porcelain explains that "our unique show always attracts a great mix of the weird and wonderful and we have offered workshop in Sydney offering participants the chance to be a part of the show. Our show is centred on celebrating diversity and accepting yourself and doing your best while 'trying to human' so we find that offering these workshops nationally gives a wide variety of people from around Australia the chance to be a part of the fun and hopefully gain something from the experience."

Porcelain is a qualified dance teacher with over 12 years teaching experience and extensive performance and choreographic experience in producing Burlesque and dance shows (including taking dance students to National titles) and these days focuses on running a National pinup competition and burlesque / variety shows that focus on celebrating the darker side of the human condition and alternative lifestyles and cultures.

Participants will have the chance to learn a popular Porcelain and the Femme Fatale routine and have the option of performing it with the show on the evening of 6th June at Nexus Arts. Tickets to the workshop and show can be purchased at <http://www.cabaretrfringefestival.com>.

A recent workshop participant Michele of her experience of the show and workshop "the whole team for being so welcoming, positive and BRILLIANT!! If The Garden of Eden comes near you please check it out, you won't regret it!!"
